*Our Alma Mater Fair,
Through life, thy love we bear,
George Washington.
Ne'er was there such a tie
Of hearts and ideals high;
A bond, that cannot die,
George Washington.*

*May we thy motto, deep,
"God is our trust," e'er keep,
George Washington.
Lead us in life's short flight,
Keep honor ever bright—
Thy faith, our guiding light,
George Washington.*

*And when life's work is o'er,
And closed for evermore,
George Washington.
May we have lived for thee;
May rest and peace then be
Well earned, because of thee,
George Washington.*

CHARLES H. WOODHULL

If you can rise to the farthest hills
And sink into the lake's blue,
What then can measure the height and depth
Of your white beauty in a man's soul.

—Davis.

So vain is the belief that the sequestered path has fewest flowers.
—Thomas Doubleday.

The Lincoln Memorial with its massive, fluted, sentient white marble columns gives an impelling impression of faithful sentinels surrounding and guarding the effigy of him that sits alone and meditates "far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife."

—Ayers.

Ne'er saw I, never felt, a calm so deep!
The brook glideth at its own sweet will.
Dear God! the very world seems asleep;
And all that mighty heart is lying still!

—Wordsworth.

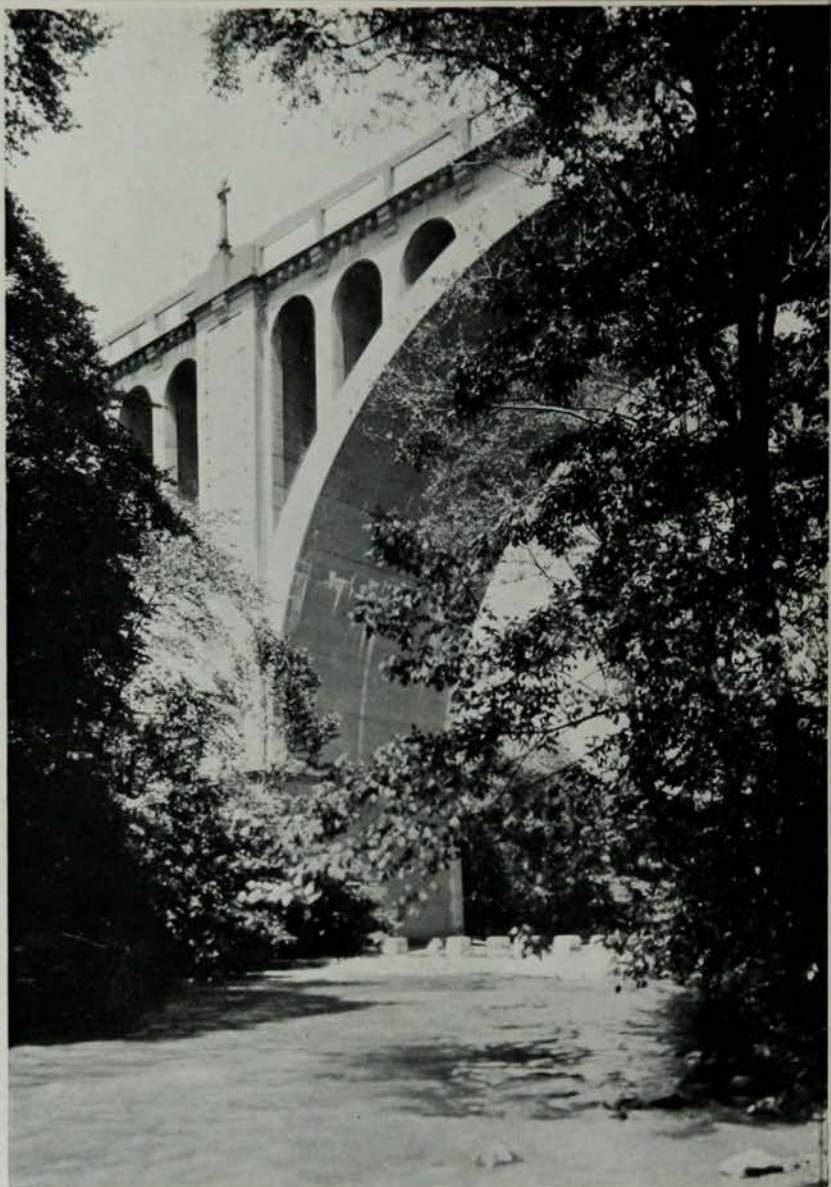

At Learning's fountain it is sweet to drink,
But 'tis a nobler privilege to think.
—J. G. Saxe (The Library).

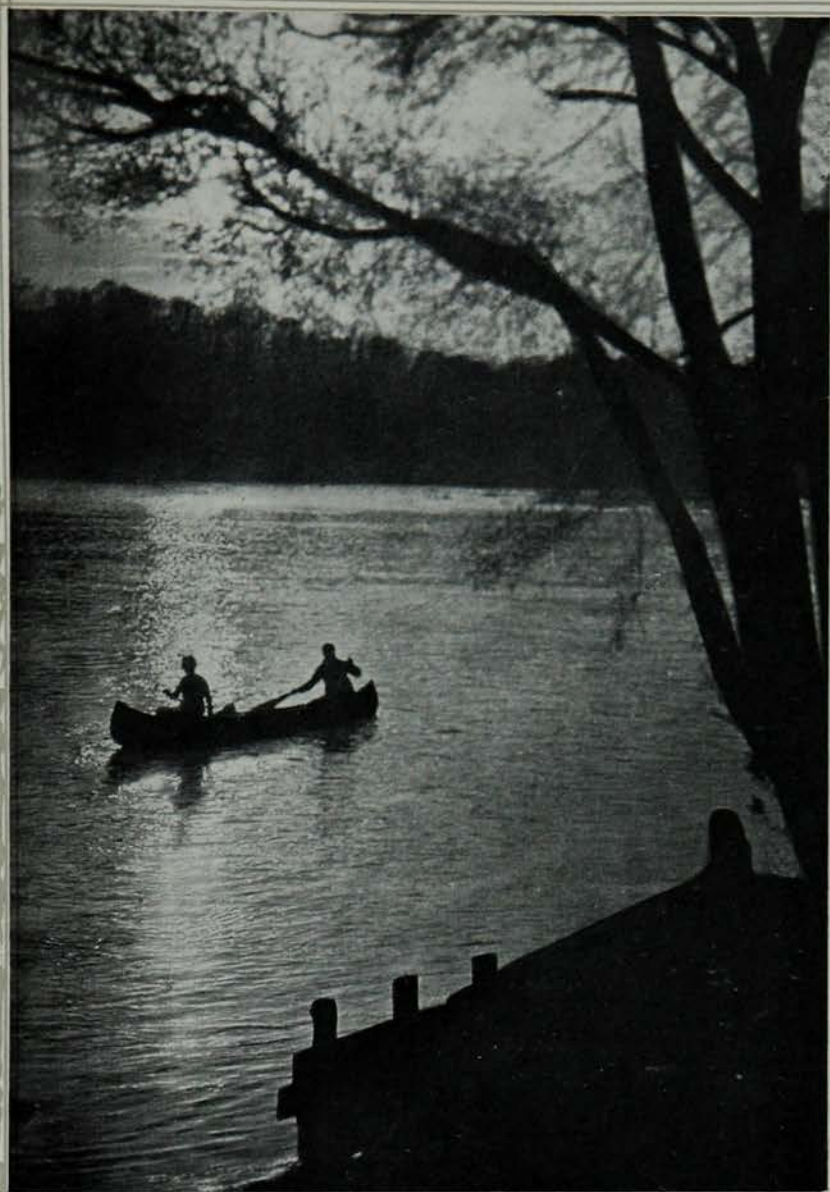

Unique among all memorials to a single character in history. So chaste and simple, yet rugged, is its lines, that one is almost inspired to feel that here the infinite and eternity are expressed in one supreme touch of art.—Ayers.

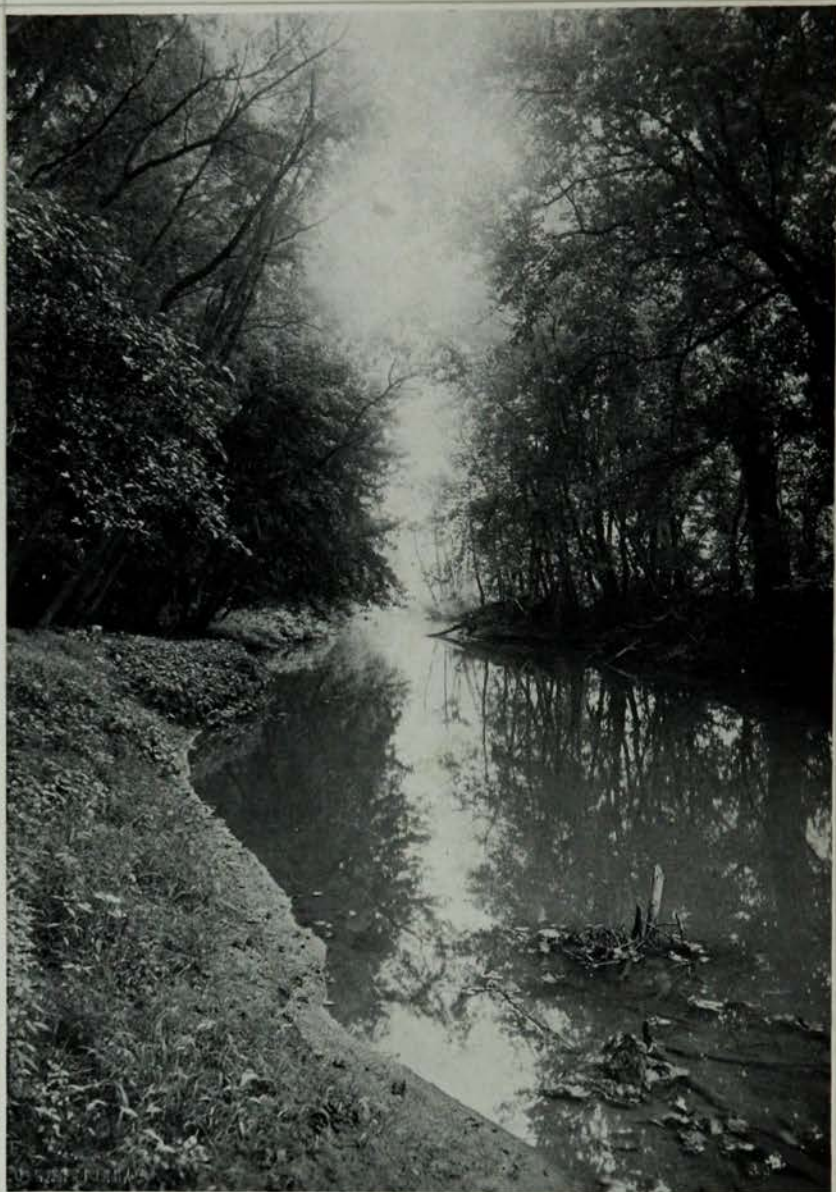

Rugged strength and radiant beauty—
These were one in Nature's plan.

—Hale.

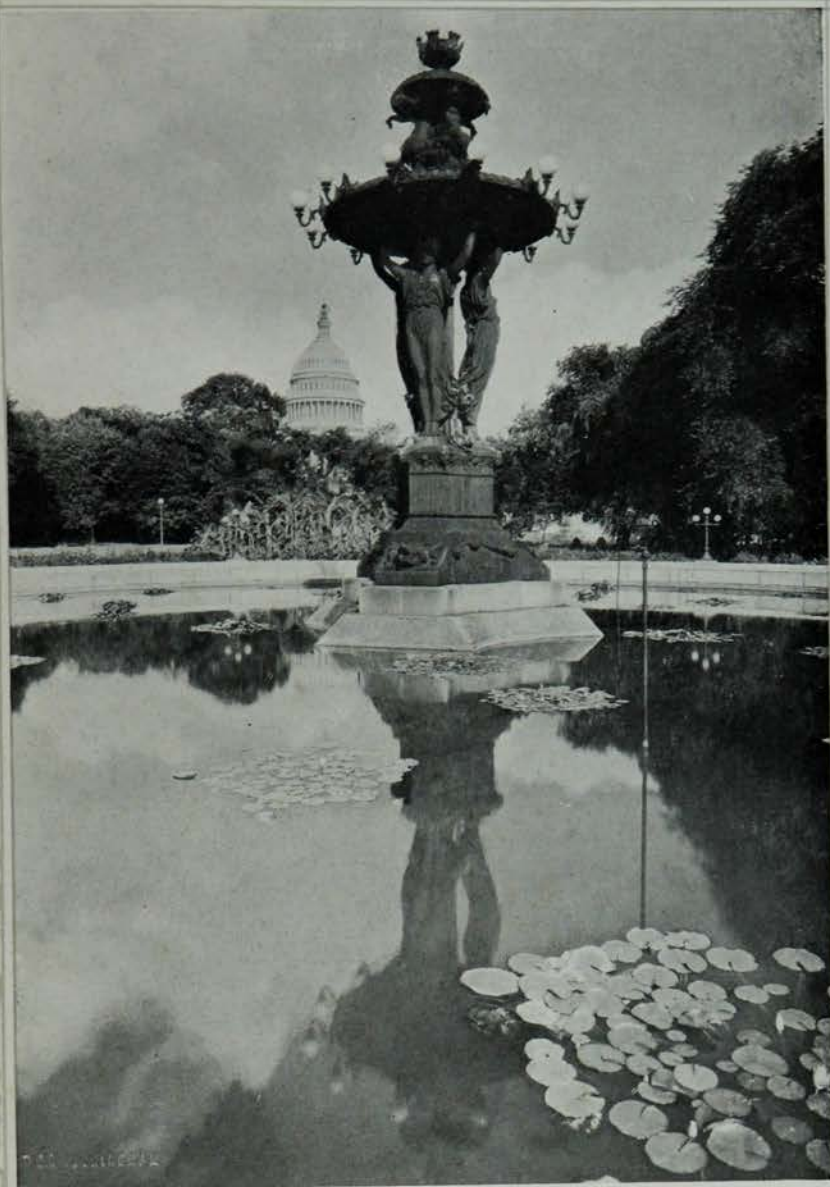

That I with you might idly float along this tideless stream while twilight's low, sweet bloom steals softly into the night's alluring stillness.—Ayers.

Brook! whose society the poet seeks,
Intent his wasted spirits to renew;
And whom the curious painter doth pursue
Through rocky passes, among flowery creeks,
And tracks thee dancing down thy waterbreaks.
—Wordsworth.

Bliss in possession will not last;
Remember'd joys are never past;
At once the fountain, stream, and sea,
They were,—they are,—they shall be.
—Montgomery.

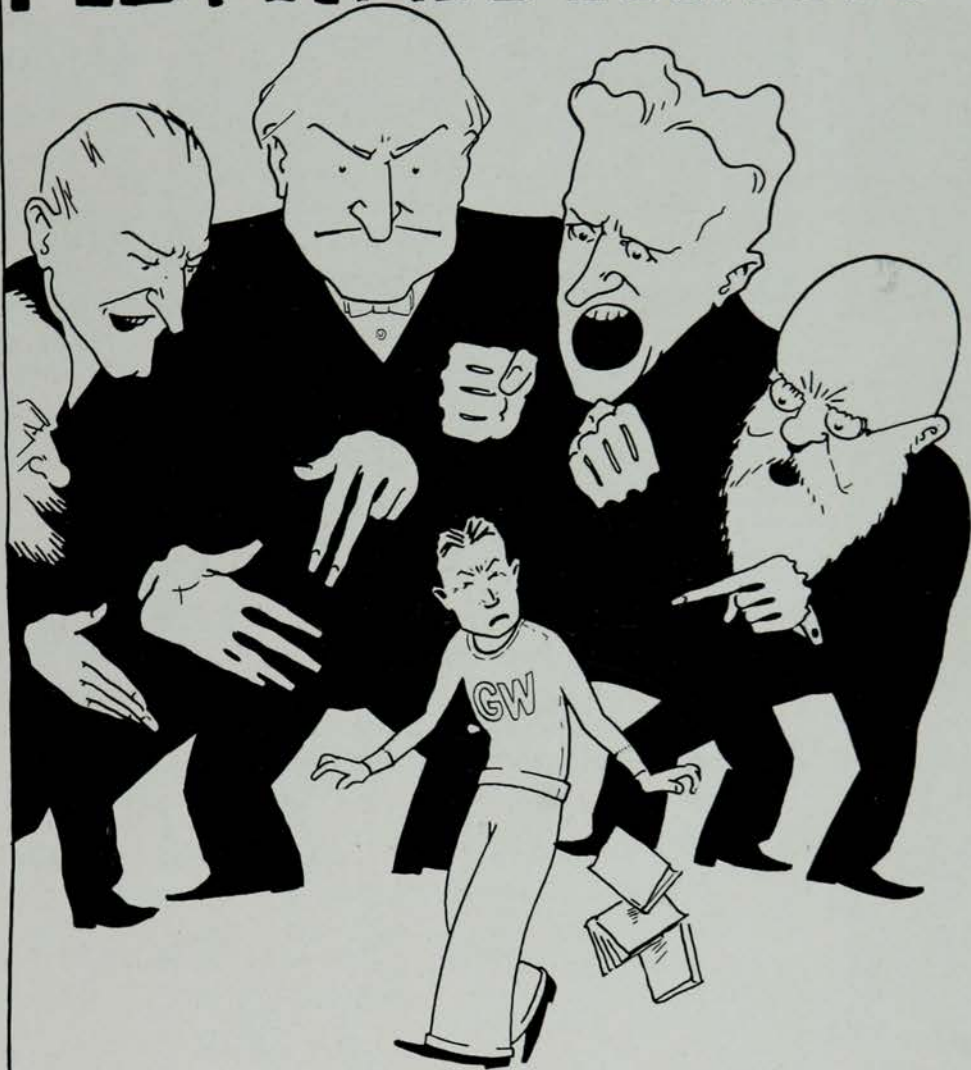

And Potomac flowed calmly, scarce heaving
her breast,
With her low-lying billows all bright in the west,
For a charm as from God lulled the waters to rest
Of the fair rolling river.

—Paul Hamilton Hayne.

THOSE BACK OF THE UNIVERSITY

THE great growth of George Washington University which has taken place during the past ten years has been due very largely to the interest and ability of the members of the Board of Trustees. One-third of the trustees are elected each year by the Board, two being selected from among those nominated by the alumni association.

Of the institutions for higher learning in the District of Columbia, George Washington University alone has a broad undenominational charter, giving it ample powers, an independent position and a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees.

Charles R. Mann

N. Langdon Burchell

Gilbert Grosvenor

Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr.

The original charter of Columbian College, the name of which was changed to Columbian University in 1873, and George Washington University in 1904, stated that its purpose was to "educate youth in the English, learned and foreign languages, liberal arts, sciences and literature." Additional Congressional acts have given it the university name as well as form. Power has been granted by Congress to organize colleges for special lines of educational work as a part of the university system, and to "enter into affiliated agreements with any institutions of learning outside of the District of Columbia, for the purpose of giving to students of such institutions the educational facilities of said University and the Departments of the Government in the City of Washington which are by law open to students."

For the 5,000 students enrolled there is a teaching staff of 300 members, part-time and full-time. Over twenty per cent of the faculty members are listed in Who's Who in America and American Men of Science.

THE JUNIOR CLASS, 1926

HE Junior Class has just completed a most successful year, and heartily congratulates itself upon its achievements.

Organizing soon after school had opened, the class held its first mixer early in December. Yet the scope of its activities has been confined largely to the span of a single week—Junior Week—which worked out beautifully. Still narrowing our sphere, we may ascribe the success of the entire year to one night in that week, the night of the Prom. Memories of the Prom still linger with us—the Mayflower, Le Paradis music, and the one girl.

But the Rotating Tea should not be overlooked, with its varied menus and its walking delegates. It also calls forth memories—memories of free lunches, pretzels, and bread lines.

Then there was the Junior Reception, snowed under with “Razzberries” hot from the press, and finally the Junior Debate, with a victory over Syracuse to give a fitting climax to the most successful Junior Week in the history of the University.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS, 1927

HE CLASS OF '27 is famous chiefly for its good looking co-eds.

Launching enthusiastically their career as a class, the sophomores held two meetings at which propaganda was introduced to reduce the frosh to the necessary level of subjection. Proclamations were posted regulating the plebes' life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness, which were never rigidly enforced. However, there is a story told of one party at which a lone, defenseless freshman was bathed at midnight in the Treasury fountain. And there is still another of a soph hazing expedition that was put to rout when outnumbered by rebellious frosh.

Since its organization in the early fall, the sophomores have not been active as a class, having held no mixer or other social function during the year. Individually, however, it is probably more generally represented in the various University activities than is any other class.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS, 1928

ENTERING the University as the first freshman class to invade the newly plastered halls of Corcoran, the class of '28 marks the advent of a new era at George Washington.

The first few weeks were strenuous ones for the first year men. Scarcely had they registered when their ranks were raided by our ravenous horde of fraternities. Unsuspecting members were pounced upon, rushed, smoked and labeled before they knew what it was all about.

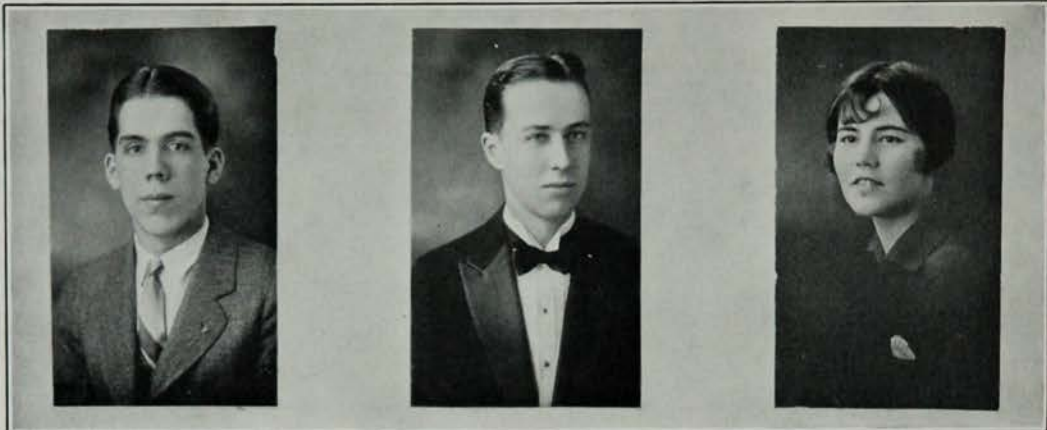

Then came the freshmen election nightmare when the citadel of the frosh was stormed by the sophomores, and the newly elected President forced to seek refuge in the boiler room. Humiliation was made complete when under edict of the sophomore class, freshmen caps became suddenly popular.

But a year has passed and our once innocent plebes have become worldly wise. No longer are they dominated by upper class tyranny. No longer do they laugh hilariously at Elmer Kayser's wise cracks, or bend double at Professor Collier's funny stories. For verily it is written that the freshmen of to-day shall become the sophomores of to-morrow.

THE LAW SCHOOL SENATE

The growth and expansion of the Law School developed the need for a separate governing body of this department of the University, and to meet this need the Law School Senate was created. It is composed of a member of the faculty, an alumnus and three members from each class.

The Student Senators for the Third and Second Year classes are elected at the end of the scholastic year by the Second and First Year students for the succeeding year, while the Freshmen Senators are elected at the beginning of the term for the current year.

Varsity Debates

Varsity Debating made a distinct advance this year. The schedules of the Girls' and Men's Teams included some of the ablest teams of the Eastern Universities, as Princeton, Syracuse, Cornell, West Virginia, North Carolina, Virginia, William and Mary, University of Pittsburgh, and Maryland, not to mention the opening debate of the season with the International Team from Cambridge.

While Cambridge was given the decision over George Washington, the men on our team made a wonderful showing and deserve much credit for their efforts against their contemporaries from England. Cambridge proposed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That Modern Democracy is not Consistent with Personal Liberty."

Cambridge:

RICHARD A. BUTLER
A. P. MARSHALL
GERALD SPARROW

George Washington:

JAMES O. CADE
JOSEPH LEVINSON
OSCAR A. ZABEL

Although the Intercollegiate schedules have not yet been completed at the time for going to press, if the teams continue their triumphs throughout the remaining debates as they have thus far, an unusually successful season is assured.

The schedules of the Girls' and Men's Teams follow:

Director of Athletics

The vane of George Washington University athletics is pointing toward a time in the near future when George Washington University will have an athletic standing equal to that of the best colleges and universities in the country. The football season has been the most successful in years. Both Men's and Girls' Basket-ball Teams have won more games than they have lost. The Track Squad this year is more promising than ever before. Men's and Girls' Rifle Teams have already won highest honors in rifle shooting by winning national intercollegiate championships last season. The Men's and Girls' Tennis Teams are both playing some of the leading schools in this part of the country, and both Swimming Teams have made decided progress. Girls' Hockey and Fencing Teams are planning on intercollegiate matches next year.

H. W. Crum, who coached the Football Team to a huge success this season, has been appointed Director of Athletics. He has succeeded in bringing about the adoption of the one-year rule, which will go into effect in the fall of 1926, and which will enable the athletic teams to play the best schools in the country. The football schedule for the coming season offers weak competition, but it is the best that could possibly have been prepared under present rules. Now that the one-year rule is going into effect, negotiations are being made for matches with Princeton and other schools of equal standing for the 1926 football schedule. Plans for the 1925-26 basket-ball schedule include a game with Princeton here, trips which will include games with Army, City College of New York, and games with other teams of like caliber.

G. W. U. athletics are bound to move forward. In a speech at the basket-ball banquet this spring, President Lewis made a plea for athletics as a big part of George Washington University, stating in summary that there are two great ideals he is trying to put to the fore at G. W. U., "one, the highest scholastic standing, and the other the highest athletic standing in the country." Coach Crum bore out this idea to further extent by promising that "if backed by the students, in five years G. W. would be playing and beating the very best teams in the country."

Struggling under numerous difficulties, Buff and Blue athletics have shown wonderful development during the past season, proving that it is not a wild dream to believe that as difficulties are removed from time to time G. W. U. can grow to the realization of President Lewis' ideal of having the University attain the highest athletic standing in the nation.

Captain Hottel's leadership was of such an inspiring character that his team-mates re-elected him to the captaincy for next season, a distinction which they feel he truly deserved. His indomitable spirit, his never flagging energy, and his speed in getting down the field made his place in the line a pillar of strength.

THE SEASON IN RETROSPECT

WELL-PLACED confidence in Coach "Maud" Crum's ability to handle a football squad as well as he handled the pigskin when starring at Princeton in 1922 was one of the factors that brought forty men out for spring football practice, a number that increased to ninety in the fall. This big turn-out signalized a new spirit that had entered into George Washington University life, a spirit that found expression also in the enthusiastic student support of football, and above all, in victory on the gridiron. Much of this spirit is traceable to President Lewis, whose interest in football was evidenced by his frequent appearance on the practice field and his attendance at games throughout the season.

By the time for the first game, with Blue Ridge College at home, Coach Crum had rounded his men into shape, and had installed the system of his famous tutor, Bill Roper. Blue Ridge came an unknown quantity, but left sized, tagged, and classified with a score of 34-0 in favor of G. W. U.

The game with Juniata College the following Saturday at Huntington, Pennsylvania, was lost 7-0, showing that our team was not yet the well-oiled machine that it should be, a revelation that had good effect in sobering the men to hard work in preparation for the first of the three big games on the schedule, with Western Maryland in Washington. The "Green Terrors," having made an admirable showing against Bucknell the previous Saturday, and having defeated the Hatchetites 20-0 the season before, came chanting a slogan of 50-0, but hard work and sincerity of purpose raised the Buff and Blue to another victory, 19-0. This first real test of football ability proved that George Washington University truly had a capable coach and a determined team.

J. McLAIN
Halfback

D. LAUX

"Prancing Dave" rounded out his four years of football service for the Buff and Blue in a brilliant fashion. His story of succeeding on the varsity is an interesting one of the player determined to make good.—And Dave certainly did.

LAUX
Halfback

J. McLAIN

Despite his small stature, "John" has speed and determination, and it is hoped that next season will find him in a regular halfback berth.

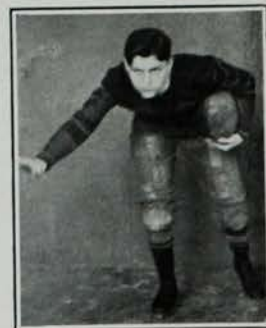

BANVILLE
Guard

S. BANVILLE

"Zev" didn't get into the game often, but when he did he made the opposing line look like a sieve. "Zev" is fast and heavy, and will be missed in 1925.

G. McLAIN

"George" was a big find of the year in backfield. His stellar defensive playing against Catholic University aided the Hatchetites in putting their foot on C. U.'s chest.

G. McLAIN
Halfback

Dean Wagner and "Little Jawn" Loehler were easily the stars of the test against the fast Drexel Institute eleven at Philadelphia, on October 18th, Wagner running back the long Drexel punts and Loehler punting and plunging through the line for consistent gains until he was taken from the field with a broken rib during the last quarter. The game ended a 13-0 victory for G. W. U.

St. Joseph's College, also of Philadelphia, had held the Drexel boys to a tie score, and came to Washington expecting to make a good showing, but fell under the George Washington hatchet with a defeat of 41-0.

Johns Hopkins had gloried in defeating the Hatchetites 62-0 in 1923, but the Crum warriors of 1924 redeemed old G. W. U. by tying them 3-3. In this, the second big game of the season, Loehler's punting and the grim skill of Zollar, Bowen, Newby, Dean Wagner, and Lamar won wild cheers from the multitude of Buff and Blue rooters, who came home from Baltimore that night with husky voices but happy hearts.

A tradition was upheld when the final game of the season was played on Thanksgiving Day with George Washington University's biggest rival, Catholic University of America. As a local newspaper put it, it was "this fracas which the players of both teams would cheerfully give an arm or a leg to win; . . . for years these two arch enemies have fought things out around Thanksgiving time, and the team which has won has had something to be thankful for until the next battle." The first quarter ended without either team scoring. Captain Hottell urged his men to greater effort, and at the beginning of the second quarter C. U. gave way before the furious plunges of Loehler, Newby, and Wagner. After that, C. U. territory was gained by further terrific line plunges, cleverly executed forward passes to Zollar and Malone, and wide end runs by Loehler and Newby. With six yards to go, Dean Wagner made the most perfect play of the season, made possible by the machine-like precision with which every man on the team played his opponent. It was our turn to be thankful: the fifteen thousand sport-lovers that filled the Brookland stadium that day saw the George Washington war horses leave the battlefield covered with the glory of a 14-0 victory.

D. WAGNER
Halfback

K. MALONE

"Kim" made his debut to intercollegiate football with a bang. Although the lightest man on the team, "Kim" filled equally well the berths of end, halfback, and quarterback, and his hard tackling carried a big message.

MALONE
End

D. WAGNER

Called upon to produce the goods in the smoke of the grid battle, "Dean" had always been there with the punch. A newspaper headline that appeared following the C. U. game is quoted: "D. Wagner shines in making scores."

T. A. KENNEY

Playing with a willingness that augurs well for his next three years in the varsity, "Ken" came through the season in fine style. He is a dependable flankman.

CLEMENTS
Center

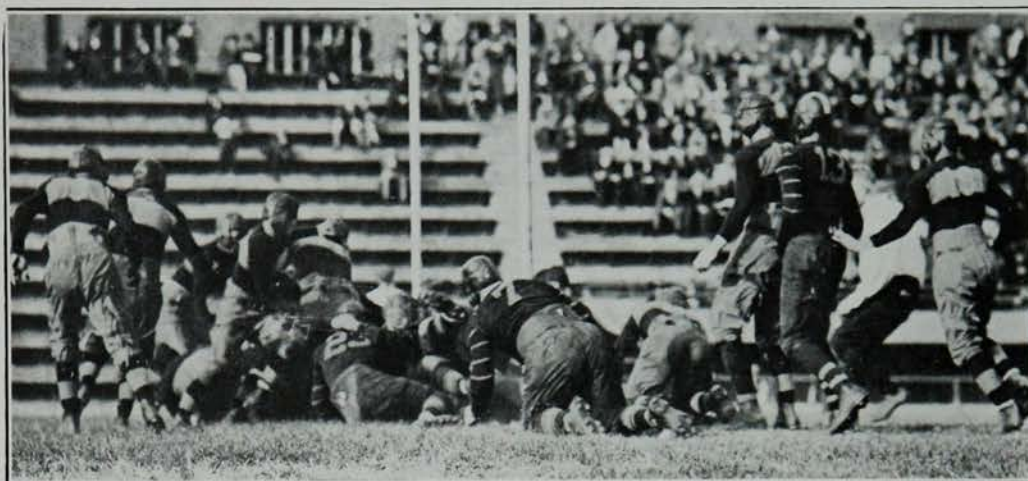

F. W. CLEMENTS

"Dutch" kept up his fighting spirit all season, and was always ready when called upon. He will probably have a regular guard berth when he returns next season.

KENNEY
End

Throughout this season of success, the G. W. U. football men were inspired to work hard and to do things by their mentor, "Maud" Crum, whose coaching is of that degree of excellency that always produces successful seasons.

Tom Tracy, as Assistant Coach of football, played his part well: without his scouting, his efforts on the practice field, and his influence during games, the season could not have been so successful. Dr. Daniel Borden, who was always on hand to lend valuable medical aid, gave moral support in the form of optimism and good cheer that was fully as valuable as his professional services. "Ernie" Stewart, manager of football, kept a watchful eye on the strings of the football purse, and made himself invaluable in the execution of the myriad duties that fall to the lot of a manager. And Burch Tennyson, assistant manager, enjoyed the goodfellowship of the entire squad as the result of his geniality and his readiness to do things for the football men.

Gold footballs awarded to the warriors eulogized in these pages bear evidence of work well done in making the football season of 1924 a big success, reflecting deserved credit to Coach Crum, the squad, and the University.

TOM TRACY
Assistant Coach

FLETCHER
Guard

J. R. FLETCHER

"Tubby," a guard of large structure, always willing to produce his best at all times, took a prominent part in every play. His personality is no less powerful than his physique, and made itself felt to good effect in keeping his teammates in the right fighting humor.

LOEHLER
Halfback

J. G. LOEHLER

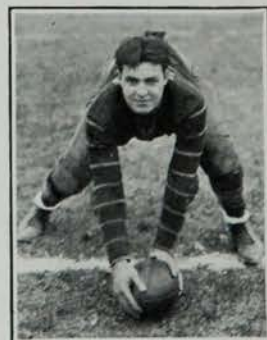

"Little Jawn," warhorse of the backfield and nerry line plunger, was one of the stars of the season. "Jawn" had an educated toe, which he used frequently in showing the pigskin how to get there via air route.

LONG

L. L. LONG

"Shorty" showed wonderful halfback possibilities during the season. His speed and drive made him especially valuable in carrying the ball. He should be a big gun in the 1925 G. W. offense.

V. WAGNER
Center

V. E. WAGNER

A newcomer to the varsity, "Fats" soon demonstrated his integrity as a defensive player, and won a regular berth as center, which he will no doubt hold again next year.

MILLER
Tackle

B. MILLER

During the latter half of the season "Bevo" began to find himself, making a creditable showing. Coach Crum figures he is due for a big campaign next autumn.

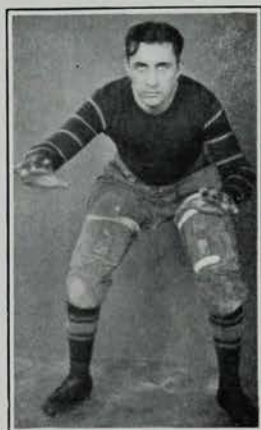

McNEIL
End

E. S. McNEIL

Though a newcomer to the Buff and Blue squad, "Mack" has given proof of great possibilities, making an excellent record for his first season.

M. G. GOLDMAN

A small package with a big message is this scrappy fighter, who succeeded in breaking through the opponents' line time after time. "Goldie's" success this season was even more phenomenal than that of last season.

GOLDMAN
Guard

W. M. HAYNES

"Battling" had the stuff at guard this season. He will make one of the best linesmen in the Buff and Blue squad if he gets down to business.

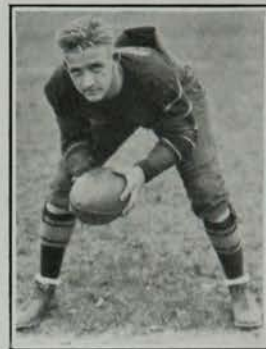

HAYNES
Guard

LAMAR
Quarterback

D. NEWBY

Injured knees received in the Juniata battle forced "Whitey" from competition until late season, when he returned with his old-time form, which he displayed in spectacular open field running in the Catholic University game.

NEWBY
Quarterback

M. B. LAMAR

After an indifferent season in 1923, "Bo" blossomed out as one of Crum's best field generals this season. His generalship during the hard-fought Johns Hopkins fracas was a revelation to the Hatchetite rooters.

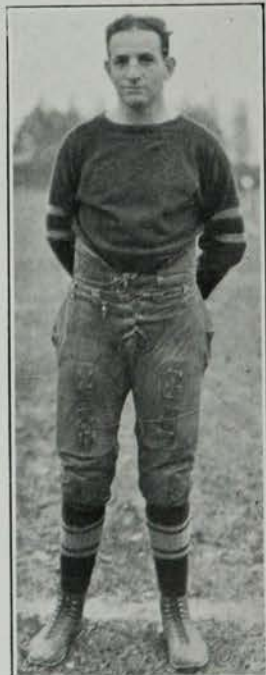

BOWEN
End

F. S. RESH

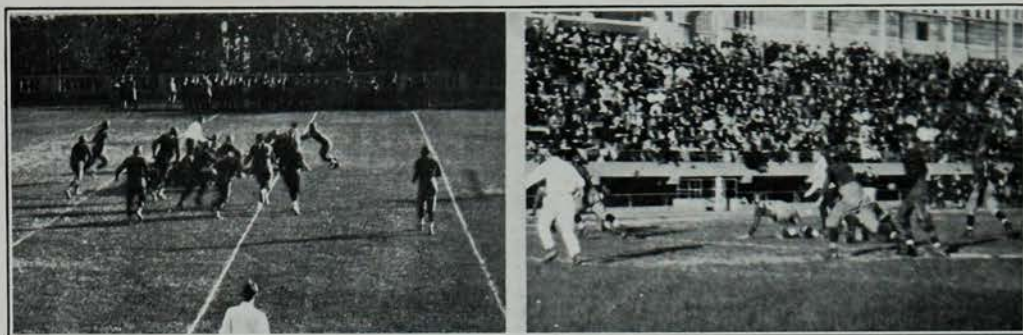

"Abie" was known to be a hard, clean warrior of the type that can be relied upon to give his best under all conditions, and will be missed from the tackle stall next year.

P. I. BOWEN

"Ivy" will put up a hard battle for a regular end berth next year; he performed creditably when Crum sent him into the lineup.

RESH
Tackle

HATCHETITES HOLDING JOHNS HOPKINS TO A STANDSTILL

L. J. KRIZ

Tackle

"Irish," one of the best tackles ever produced at George Washington University, took keen delight in outplaying opposing linemen. Strength is his main asset, and he used it intelligently.

H. ZOLLAR

End

C. U. backs groaned when stopped by "Horse" Zollar: the big Dover boy spilled the Brooklanders in all directions. Long's passes were his specialty.

B. LEVY

Not until late in the season did the fans realize that "Potash" possessed real fighting ability. Good things are expected from him when he returns for his second season of football.

THE SEASON IN RETROSPECT

WITH a grand total of 284 points scored against 282 for their opponents, and with six victories to offset five defeats, the 1925 Buff and Blue Basketball team considered the season a most successful one.

Catholic University and Gallaudet, old rivals, were decisively defeated; Johns Hopkins, Blue Ridge College and Roanoke College were conquered in close battles, while Drexel Institute proved easy for the Hatchetmen.

The famous Washington College team was held to a very close score, while the battle dropped to St. Johns was considered somewhat as a robbery. The whirlwind Senators of Davis and Elkins College also won from the Hatchetmen, while a battle was dropped to Catholic University early in the season, and another was ceded to Savage Institute in a game played in New York City.

The team, led by Captain "Mike" Dowd, playing his third year of Varsity basketball, and coached by "Jack" Daily, former G. W. star, played consistent basketball, and their game was marked by clean tactics and fair play.

Paul Bowen led the team in points scored, his twenty-four floor goals and fifteen fouls giving him high honors with a total of sixty-three. "Muscles" Sawyer led in floor goals with twenty-five to his credit, and eleven fouls, giving him a total of sixty-one. MacDonald held the high percentage in foul shooting, his record being three out of four, or seventy-five percent.

"Jack" Daily, who has coached the Buff and Blue men for two seasons, comes in for no small amount of the glory of a victorious season, and Manager Perry Gard is deserving of a share of the glory for his efficient management of affairs.

TRACK, SEASON OF 1925

George Washington University was not represented by an indoor track team this year, due to the fact that the new twenty-one lap indoor track was not installed in the gymnasium until the indoor track season had been practically completed. After the track was installed, however, about fifty men responded to Coach Probey's call for candidates, and intensive training for the outdoor season began immediately.

Coach Probey considers the prospects for a well-balanced track team this year exceptionally good. In the distance events he has Shipley, a former Central cinder path star and an excellent mile and two-miler, backed up by Willett, Domigan, and Anderson. Captain Simmons stands out as the best performer in the 880-yard run. Tolson, last year's Captain, Grass, Chinn, Glover, Bixby, Paul Loehler, McCormack, and Captain Simmons are some of the men training for the quarter-mile, while Zeigler, another former Central track star, Tolson, Meister, Grass, John Loehler, and Sisk will be seen in the century and furlong sprints. In the field events John Loehler and Nichols are past masters in clearing the "sticks," while the former can always be depended upon to win points in the shot put, discus, and javelin. Nichols is also an excellent high jumper. Harmon, Buchanan, and Ketcham are sure winners in the pole vault, as are Sisk, Loehler, and Brown in the broad jump. Hottel and Merrick are expected to win points this year in the discus.

SIMMONS

The George Washington Relay Team made a splendid showing at the Penn Relay Carnival at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, April 25th. Entered in a class mile relay event with Boston University, Catholic University, Western Maryland, Randolph-Macon, St. John's College, Manhattan College, and Loyola College, the George Washington team, composed of John Loehler, Ivan Hewitt, Hillory Tolson, and Captain William Simmons, running in the order named, finished a scant two yards behind Boston University, whose team negotiated the distance in 3:30%. George Washington's time was 3:30%, the fastest time turned in by a Hatchetite mile relay team within the past eight years. The average quarter-mile run by the four men was 52% seconds.

THE SECOND ANNUAL INTERCLASS TRACK AND FIELD MEET

(Under Auspices of G. W. Club.)

The Class of 1925 won the second annual Inter-Class Track and Field Meet held April 18, 1925, with a score of 58 points. The victory carried with it the second year's possession of the Louis A. Fischer Memorial Trophy. The Freshman Class took second honors with a total of 49 points, the Junior Class third with 44 points, and the Sophomore Class fourth with 41 points.

John Loehler, Senior, won the Thomas F. Probey Individual Point Trophy, scoring 26½ points. Leah Cate, Freshman, won the individual honors in the women's events with 19 points.

A. Aaronson, Senior, won second place in the open events with a total of 16½ points; Walton Shipley, Junior, third place with 15 points; and Arthur "Dog" Meister, Freshman, fourth place with 6 points.

Hazen P. Bishop, Freshman, won the individual point medal in the men's closed events with a total of 9 points; Vernon Brown, Junior, tied with John McLain, Junior, for second place with 8 points, each; while Guy Hottel, Junior, tied with Vernon Sawyer, Junior, for third place with 7 points each.

THE SEASON IN RETROSPECT

George Washington University has been strongly represented in the field of intercollegiate rifle competition for many years. Despite a severe handicap of inadequate facilities and equipment, the sport has steadily developed, until the great team of last season carried everything before it in the indoor competition, winning more than a dozen dual matches, the interurban league championship, the eastern championship, and finally the national intercollegiate title.

Under the inspiration of these successes, elaborate plans were made for providing a first-class, completely equipped rifle range in Corcoran Hall. With the generous cooperation of every one concerned, and the enthusiastic and effective support of President Lewis, the plans have, during the past few months, developed into a reality, so that to-day we have in the basement of Corcoran Hall what is probably the finest collegiate rifle range in the country.

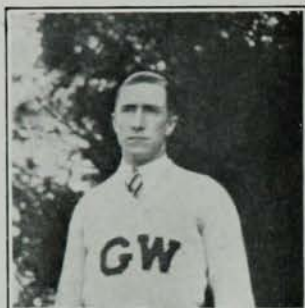

Work upon the new range was not completed until February, so that the team was obliged to plunge into a heavy match schedule with but a few days of preliminary practice. This disadvantage was materially offset, however, by the presence on the squad of about a dozen veterans of the 1924 organization, so that no real difficulty was encountered in getting away to the winning start which has since been maintained without interruption.

The prime mover of the rifle shooting organization during the recent successful seasons has been Walter R. Stokes, former world champion rifle shot, and he is deserving of a great deal of credit for the fact that George Washington University now leads the colleges of the nation in rifle shooting.

In the outdoor Intercollegiate Championship match, held at Annapolis on May 16, J. W. Crockett established a new intercollegiate individual record by making 241 points out of a possible 250.

SEASON OF 1924

As the CHERRY TREE goes to press the tennis enthusiasts are just beginning to prepare for the coming season. Law and Baum, letter men from last year, and Rutley, a letter man of the previous year, are the nucleus around which this year's team will be formed.

The schedule last year included some of the foremost universities of the East, among which were Princeton, Columbia, Navy, Lehigh and Colgate. It was the most difficult ever listed by the Hatchetites.

George Washington University may well be proud of the 1924 team as both Georgetown and Maryland went down to defeat before the formidable racket wielders of our team. The victory over Georgetown in the "big" match of the year was most gratifying to G. W. U. Captain Otto Klopsch played an important part in this match as he was the only player to share in two victories.

In the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate matches at Columbia Country Club, Rutley defeated Regan, captain and number one man on the Catholic University team.

Much credit is due Dean Miller for his generous efforts in developing our team; also to Manager Harold Young for his excellent management and the fine schedule which he arranged.

GIRLS' BASKET-BALL

MARY BIXLER
Captain

With several letter girls from last year's team and with good new material, the girls' varsity this year under Miss Jackson's coaching won six and tied one of the ten games played.

Grace Young and Alys Ewers, forwards, both letter girls, have done most of the scoring for George Washington. Louise Omwake, Jean Jackson, and Leah Cate have played a whirlwind game in center, and the opposition forwards have had to work hard to get through the guarding of Mary Bixler, Captain, and Elizabeth Hastings.

ALYS EWERS
Captain-elect

In recognition of the fine success of the Buff and Blue girl basketeers, the Pan-Hellenic Council awarded them gold basket-balls.

Sweaters and letters were awarded Alys Ewers, Grace Young, Louise Omwake, Leah Cate, Mary Bixler, Elizabeth Hastings, Betty Armentrout, Jean Jackson, Ella April, Katharine Shoemaker, and Alice Haines. These deserved tokens of honor reflect credit to the girl cage artists for hard work well done.

GIRLS' RIFLE TEAM

KATHARINE EDMONSTON
Captain

SEASON OF 1925

KATHARINE EDMONSTON, Captain SOPHIA WALDMAN, Manager WALTER R. STOKES, Coach

The best girls' college rifle team in the United States is at George Washington University. Last year the deadly aim of this team won for G. W. U. the National Rifle Association Women's Intercollegiate Championship. Consistent good shooting throughout the season left the schedule unmarred by a single loss.

Members of last year's championship team who are shooting again this season, with even greater success, are Katharine Edmonston (Captain), Sophia Waldman (Manager), Eleanora Barroll, Edna Kilpatrick, Katharine Shoemaker, Sallie Burklin, Mae Huntzberger, Ermytrude Vaiden, and Frances Cook. Elizabeth Owen and Adelaide Cotter made their debut to Buff and Blue riflery this season, and their accuracy with the rifle has kept them on the regular team, with fine records. Captain "Kay" Edmonston and Eleanora Barroll are the stars of this team of stars, which is winning every match on the schedule, with frequent perfect scores.

In addition to outdoing other colleges in rifle shooting, the G. W. U. Girls' Rifle Team devotes two nights a week to teaching other George Washington University girls the art of riflery. A silver cup will be given to the "Best Beginner," and awards will be made to the best shooter in the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior Classes, respectively.

A great measure of credit for the phenomenal success of girls' rifle shooting in the University is due to Walter R. Stokes, former world champion rifle shot, who coaches both Girls' and Men's Rifle Teams. Katharine Edmonston does justice to her title of "Captain" by outdoing the rest of the team in consistent accuracy of aim. Sophia Waldman bears well the title of "Manager," and shoots regularly with very creditable scores in addition to handling the affairs of her office.

SEASON OF 1924-25

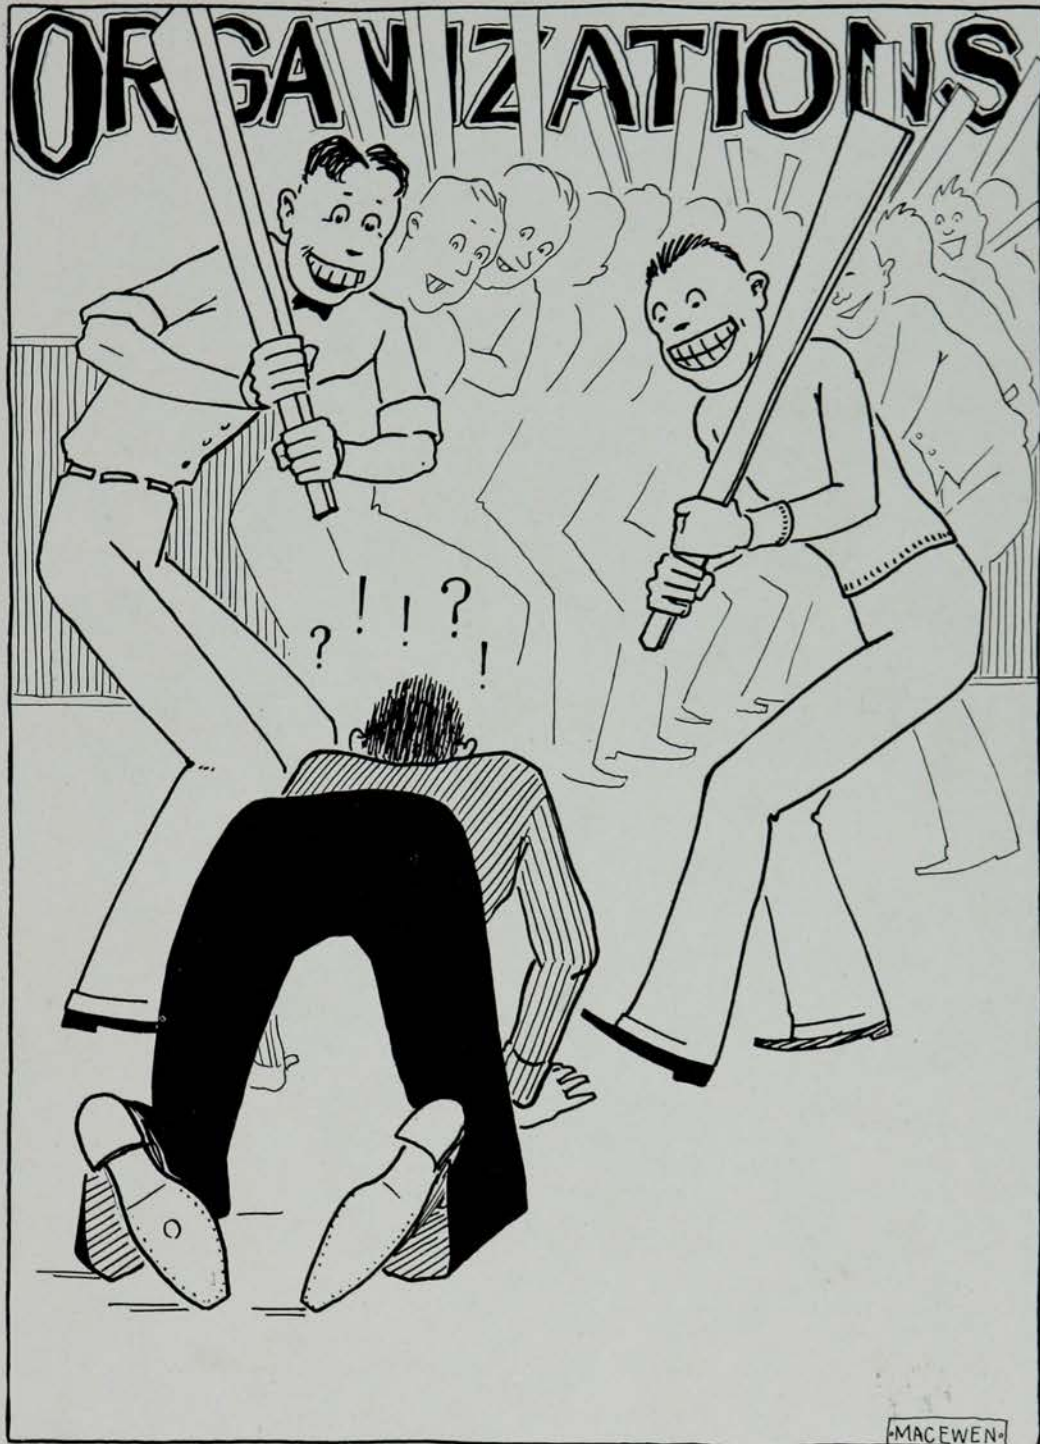

Girls' swimming was started this season during the first semester, and continued on into the middle of April. At the beginning of the season very little material for a team was in sight, and consequently the coach concentrated on teaching unskilled mermaids how to swim. By the second semester, however, several of the girls had so improved that a team was organized and informal races were held every Saturday. These stimulated lively competition and attracted the interest of the student body.

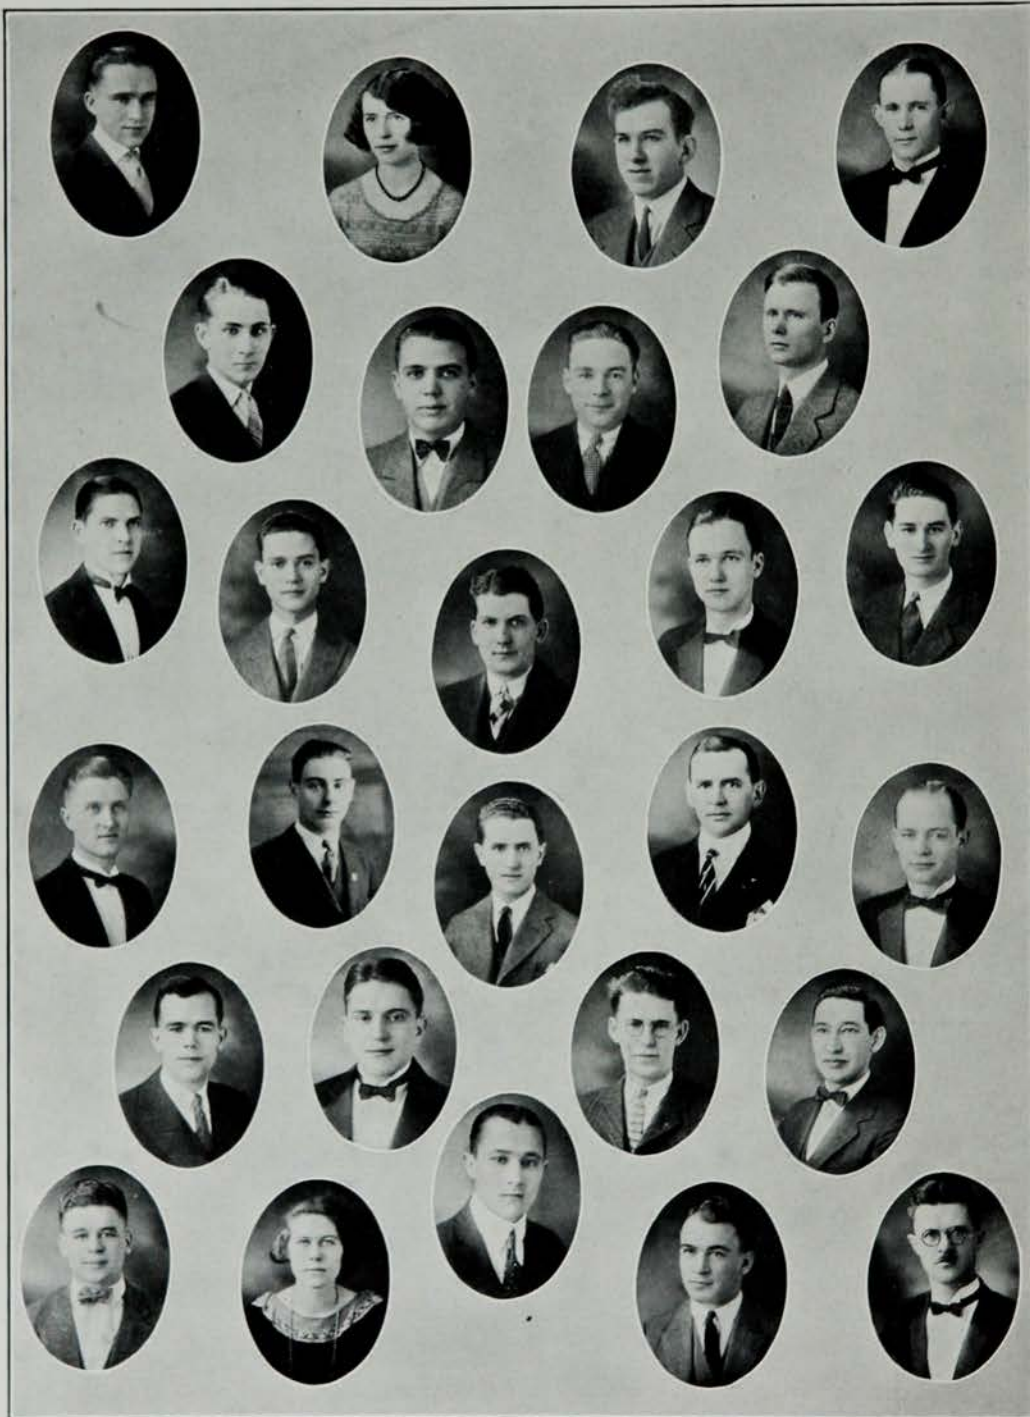

ALICE RANCK
Manager

On March the team competed in informal races against one of the Capital Athletic Club teams, and divided honors evenly. At the end of the season an exhibition of swimming and water stunts was held, evoking a great deal of interest.

With the lengthened season the greater number of swimming periods, and the keen interest shown, girl's swimming has made a decided stride forward this year.

NOVEMBER 2, 1924.

DEAR BILLIE:

Ever since this old school opened events have been piling up, one upon another. Naturally the first week was all bustle and talk, for old friends had much to talk over, and the Freshmen had to be impressed with the affable natures of the G. W.-ites.

The formal opening of the social calendar was on October 28th. Of course, there had been several small things like the repeating of last year's Roll Call, class elections, and the debate with Cambridge. All these caused a little ripple, but the grand splash came on the night of Fall Convocation. That was the night!—because Corcoran Hall, Unit No. 1 of the greater G. W., was formally dedicated.

After the graduation exercises, President and Mrs. Lewis assisted by the Deans and their wives, received the members of the Faculty and student body. The building was open for inspection, so you know it was a time of real rejoicing. Every one sensed they were enjoying the first step toward the realization of a great dream.

Before I stop for to-night, I want you to know that Dean Rose is continuing her monthly teas this year. I was so glad to hear it, too, because they give us all such a splendid chance really to know her. I could write forever, because I'm really pepped up over the social calendar and the good times planned this year. Never mind, I'll bother you often.

As ever,

BETTY LEE.

NOVEMBER 17, 1924.

BILLIE DEAR:

We are having more dedications and transformations taking place here. I feel like walking down the streets shouting, "Watch us Grow." Night before last our very own gym was dedicated, by holding the annual County Fair in it. This, too, has become a G. W. tradition, and the Y. W. C. A. workers certainly made it a huge success. The gym is quite large, in fact, I think it rivals the floor space of any hotel in Washington for social affairs. It was attractively decorated in buff and blue. All the sororities and organizations had taken booths and were selling anything from hot dogs to grab bags, in a most ardent and noisy manner. Everyone seemed to be having a good and noisy time.

With such a combination gym and ball room, no doubt remained in the mind of anyone as to where the football hop would be held. Yes, indeed, on December 5 we gave our own dance, in our own building, on our own floor. It was a big success. Crowded? I should say so! Everyone was there from green little freshmen to our most dignified Seniors. The music was good, the boys got their letters, had to make speeches, "and a good time was had by all." Billie, you ought to hear Captain Hottel make a speech. No wonder they elected him Captain.

Wish you could have been there.

BETTY LEE.

DECEMBER 20, 1924.

BILLIE:

What do you think? The Law School is going to move down with us next year. Won't our old cement campus be crowded! Of course, you know that the old property up on K Street was sold, and on the afternoon of December 15 the corner stone for the new law school was laid with the most fitting of ceremonies.

December 15 was just crammed full of important dates. Of course, you also know that General Lafayette was a friend of General Washington's, on the battlefield and off of it. Yes, he was even intimate enough to be the guest of honor at George Washington University's first convocation. Because of all this long history, the idea was conceived that a Lafayette Alcove should be created. People who loved G. W. and had things of interest centering around Lafayette began to give them to us. That night retiring Ambassador Jusserand spoke in Corcoran Hall as the guest of honor at the Lafayette exercises. It was all very impressive. Honey, G. W. is becoming a thrilling school to go to.

Love,

BETTY LEE.

JANUARY 19, 1925.

MY DEAR:

Mid-years are slowly approaching and the dark and gloomy cloud is gradually closing in around us. However, before I start getting down to the grind, I want to tell you all about the Senior Ball.

This year the Senior Class decided that June was entirely too long to wait before making its social bow to the school. Therefore, a Senior Ball was given January 16 in our gym. It was almost a perfect affair.

The gym with its bare brick walls and iron girders had been transformed into a woodland bower. Pine and spruce were around the sides of the room, while smilax had been twined around the girders. The fraternity banners gave the added touch of color. The music was good, the floor was excellent, (I'm wondering how they got it so smooth) and in spite of the fact that several signs were visible, "No one allowed on the floor except in gym shoes," everything was dancing.

All went well until time to go home. Suddenly from the men's check room could be heard, "Where's my hat? . . . Who's got my coat?" and when the smoke blew away, hats and coats were scattered everywhere. Some big hats were on small heads and some big heads were under small hats. One or two failed to find an overcoat for himself, including "Bunn" Tolson. It was too bad it had to happen, but from now on I know the checking facilities will be attended to.

Always,

BETTY LEE.

FEBRUARY 23, 1925.

BILLIE DEAR:

It is now about two-thirty. I have just gotten home from the Colonial Ball which the lady managers of the hospital gave. It was given in the gym, but no one could be convinced of that fact. You ask why. Well, it just wasn't the gym. It was the back garden at Mount Vernon.

I can hear you say, "how dumb." The boys of the Architecture department had fixed it up so that the camouflage was perfect. My descriptive faculties are poor, so I'm enclosing a picture of the gym.

G. W. GYM. DECORATED FOR COLONIAL BALL.

Everything went off beautifully; nearly everyone was in costume; the French Ambassador and his wife were guests of honor; and last but not least (in fact, it was the hit of the evening) was the minuet. This was made up of six groups of four couples each—four from the student body and two from the faculty. It was so quaint and picturesque.

All this was done to raise money for the hospital. Judging from the crowd I would say it could not help being a financial success, for it was a social triumph.

I'm dead sleepy—will write later about Junior Week.

WALLIS
Prom

OH, BILLIE:

Junior Week was glorious, heavenly, superb and all the other adjectives that I have neither time nor space to add. Nothing of importance had happened at school from exams till February 22, except to a few who were honored (?) with some yellow slips. I escaped and so I was ready for anything.

Of course, everyone expected a round of social events, but this year it was a whirlpool. All honor and glory should be paid to Bob Pollock, who was Chairman of the week. He seems to have been a genius in the picking of competent chairmen.

Sunday, February 22, formally opened the long heralded Junior Week with a rotating tea. It was loads of fun—a la progressive bridge. Each one of the fraternities was host for a specified hour and each one served a special kind of refreshment—one had punch, another had nuts, still another salad, and so on. Everyone who came met all his friends at one place or another. Those who stayed at home have been regretting it ever since.

Monday, convocation was held at Continental Memorial Hall. It was most impressive. From there everyone went back to Corcoran Hall to attend the President's reception. We took a few moments to pay our respects to the President and then danced till seven. The "Razzberry" was sold at the dance, and intermissions were spent in scanning its pink pages to see who had been razzed.

Friday night was the night of nights. The Junior Prom! Honey, everytime I try to talk about it I just have to stop, because my vocabulary is too limited to describe it. The least I can say is that it was the most beautiful Prom that G. W. has sponsored for a long time. Too much credit can't be given to Lew Wallis, chairman of the Prom. The beautiful ballroom at the "Mayflower" was filled; the favors were attractive grey leather card cases; and the music was all that Myer Davis and Le Paradis could make it. Now, what more could one ask?

While I was waiting to get my wrap I could hear on all sides,—“Oh! I have had the most wonderful time.” “It was just perfect.” “Best Junior Week ever.”

Oh! what's the use of trying to describe something indescribable? I just can't. Only one thing spoiled a perfect week, and that was your absence.

Guess what,—I'm going to the scholarship luncheon, March 17. Will write and tell you all about it soon.

As ever,

BETTY LEE.

JUNIOR PROM AT THE MAYFLOWER

BILLIE DEAR:

I have so much to tell you. First I want to tell you all about Pan-Hell Luncheon. This was one of the big events of the year because the high scholarship girls of the campus were formally recognized and fêted. This year the luncheon was held at Rauscher's on St. Patrick's Day. Everything was lovely. The color scheme was green; the menu delicious; the toasts splendid, and last but not least was the presentation of the scholarship cup, which was won by Zeta Tau Alpha.

Strange to say, Inter-Fraternity Prom was also held the same week, at Rauscher's. It was an awfully nice dance. The ball rooms were decorated with greens and different fraternity banners. The music was wonderful. "Le Paradis." Besides, they had several specialties during the evening just as little surprises.

The favors were adorable. Little silver loving cups. I do not know what the hidden meaning was.

One of the specialties of the evening was the presentation of the interfraternity scholarship cup. After the speech of commendation, the representative of Acacia stepped forward to receive the coveted prize for his fraternity. From some of the vows that were taken by members of the other fraternities, Acacia will have to "dig" to keep the cup next year.

This social life is becoming an awful strain. I think I'm going into seclusion until Pan-Hall Prom.

Your tired,

MARCH 20, 1925.

BILLIE DEAREST:

This is the last long letter I'm going to write before I come home. I did as I said I would and went on the retired list until the night of Pan-Hell Prom.

I had a glorious time. The Willard Ball room was decorated with the ever present banners and everyone was there. It was the largest Prom ever given by the "Greek girls" of the campus.

The music was real "peppy" and best of all—We had Enough Punch! No favors were given—instead we had real cute programs.

There are numerous and varied reports to be heard about the campus in regard to Senior Week. The only definite fact that anyone knows is that it is going to be different and far better than the "weeks" which have preceded it. Bond and his corps of Chairmen are working hard and the Seniors are expecting a week of social activity that will be a fitting climax to their school career.

By listening a lot and saying little I have been able to find out what the proposed plans for the week are. On May 27 an Alumnæ Reception has been planned. This is to be the climax of homecoming day. The Senior Prom is to be given May 28. I do not know where it is to be given, or any more of the details. When I get home I'll tell you all about it. However, it just has to be perfect. Of course, the usual pilgrimage to Mount Vernon will be included in the week. This will be followed within a day or two by Class Day. I can find out nothing more definite than the statement that it will be "Class Day" in the full sense of the word. One event of the day will be the planting of ivy taken from the tomb of George Washington. Baccalaureate Sermon is to be held May 31, then last and best—Commencement, June third.

When I get home I will give you every big and little detail about everything. Until then, I will be an impatient,

BETTY LEE.

DRAMATICS

OR the first time in the history of the University, dramatics have been placed on a sound basis and a program of action has been adopted which is sufficiently comprehensive to do justice to all. Early in the school year, Prof. Robert W. Bolwell was appointed as chairman of the sub-committee of student activities in charge of dramatics.

The first link he forged in the chain of development was the organization of the Dramatic Association of George Washington University. This organization includes all students in the University who are interested in dramatics—not only the histrionic end but also staging, directing and even writing plays. A mass meeting was held on February 11, 1925 with over a hundred students present. The routine business necessary to the founding of an organization was gone through with and officers were elected, Edward B. Moulton being honored with the presidency. The Association meets four times a year and will have an entertaining program at each meeting, either by selecting acts from the producing clubs or by providing interesting speakers on dramatic subjects. The first meeting of the Association was held April 22, 1925 and furnished a delightful program for the large audience that attended. This meeting marked the formal opening of the new theatre. President Lewis advanced the necessary money to the Association to build a stage and equip it with curtains and the necessary lighting effects. The share of money allotted to dramatics from the Student Activities Fund provided the property for the dramatic groups. The University now has a theatre in the new gymnasium which provides ample and excellent staging facilities and which has a seating capacity of about twelve hundred people.

The plan, of which the Association is the key, provides for four producing clubs, i. e., four different groups which will produce programs for training enthusiast aspirants for dramatic success, and will produce a Varsity play some time during the year. Each one of the four clubs is devoted to a separate field, there being one club interested in modern drama, one in experimental work, such as the writing of plays, new theories of lighting, unusual staging, etc., one in musical presentations, and one in historical drama. These four groups have been organized and have been actively engaged in dramatic work.

The Players started their work in October with Marion Campbell as president, and presented a program in November. This first program included "Neighbors," a one-act play with special emphasis on character parts. The cast included Marie Didden, Marion Campbell, Patty Ann Jamison, Josephine Elizabeth Hopkins, Margaret Maize, Louise Espey, Murray Flack, and Vincent Gould. The direction was in the hands of Robert Emerson. Murray Flack was the outstanding star in his perfect characterization of the bashful Peter. Miss Campbell created a favorable impression in her interpretation of the role of Grandma. Miss Didden carried off honors as Inez. The other number on the program was a fifteen minute farce by Caleb O'Connor—"Well." Elsie Talbert, Clay Powell and Vincent Gould under the direction of Maxine De Silvia scored a success in this act.

The next program of the Players had as its main number a song and dance act with Ruth Hutchinson singing the lead, Maxine De Silvia and Marie Didden in a specialty dance and a clever chorus of girls. A farce, "The Little Girl Who Was Afraid" was also given with two characters, Maxine De Silvia and Edward B. Moulton. Both programs showed excellent work on the part of the participants and showed wonderful results from the work of Maxine De Silvia as managing director.

In February the Players organized under the new plan and voted to restrict their productions to the field of modern drama. A few weeks later a program was presented including a monologue by Margaret Maize, a dialogue in negro dialect—"Hangin' Out the Wash," with Elizabeth Wiltbank and Josephine Elizabeth Hopkins, a one-act play "The Twelve-Pound Look" with the Gray sisters and Douglas Hartman, and a roaring one-act burlesque "The Amateurs." This act was so well received that it was repeated at the next meeting of the Players in April. In addition to "The Amateurs," Helen Dix gave an interesting monologue, Margaret Maize and Kermit Girdner gave "The Fame and the Poet," Elsie Talbert and Clay Powell gave a dialogue comique and Marie Didden, Helen Boyd, Dorothy Shore, Molly Lee, Murray Flack and Josephine Elizabeth Hopkins gave "Help Wanted." The latter was the second successful production under the student direction of Ruth Peters.

The Players chose for the Varsity play to be given early in May "The Importance of Being Earnest" by Oscar Wilde. The play will end one of the most successful years this organization has ever had.

The Mimes is the second oldest dramatic organization at the University, a society which is to be remembered as having produced "The Charm School" in 1922 and as having sponsored the "Union Vodivil" in 1923. This group met early in the school year but was faced with a serious problem of recouping its membership, the ranks having been more than decimated by graduations. Many meetings were held to decide just exactly what should be done and plans were adopted for the future. To show the school that talent at least was left them they staged a frolic in Corcoran Hall for the Junior class.

Subsequently all the activities of the society and all the attention and enthusiasm of the members have been centered on the Varsity program for presentation in May of this year. The rehearsals of "Judge Lynch," directed by J. Foster Hagan and Leonard Hall, "Aria da Capo," directed by Marian Barker and Evelyn Davis, together with a Pierrot dance by Evelyn Davis and a number of selections on the piano by Kenneth Mulford and Mrs. Cecil Cain, have gone along regularly and smoothly.

A strong desire to organize a group for the production of musical comedies, light operas and musical dramas in general developed early in the school year and grew rapidly in force, coming forth finally in an organization known as the Troubadours. Miss Helen Boyd was elected President with Alberico Pompa as managing director. The latter resigned soon afterwards and Ruth Peters succeed him. Shortly after its organization the group gave a program of mixed numbers demonstrating the ability of its members. The most important thing, however, was the Varsity play and the deepest thought was given to this subject. After considering various plans and various plays, the choice fell on "The Miniature Lady," an operetta in two acts. As the first musical production ever presented by students of the University, it marks a big step forward in dramatics.

The fourth but not least important of the clubs was formed in December, 1924 under the name of The Dionysians. This society will produce plays covering the widely divergent spheres of theatrical accomplishments, from the very inception of dramatic history up to the evolution of the drama in 1800, which includes Greek drama, the mystery and miracle plays, the mediaeval Christian Church and folk plays, the Age of Elizabeth and the sometimes-popular Restoration plays. Miss Katherine Wright was elected president and has ably directed the work of this group since her elevation to office.

Ben Johnson's "Epicene" and John Webster's "The Duchess of Malfi" were casted and presented in May. From all indications the Dionysians have gained their original objective with the presentation of their Varsity plays.

With the theatre for its work next fall, great things are planned and expected in Dramatics. The Students realize they must develop leadership among themselves in Dramatics, and that if they make use of the facilities they have, more will naturally follow.

FRATS AND FRATERS

BY A RUSHEE

Having been popular in high school, I was naturally recommended to several frats when I came to G. W. When I arrived in Washington, naturally I was met. When some of the frats started to rush me, naturally the others started. As a consequence I was rushed by all of them. Here's what I saw.

ridic," "please be your age," etc, were the chief instruments of persuasion employed to convince me that the bunch were on to all the cowboy stuff. Reardon very tactfully dropped a remark about one of their men nearly making the football team two years ago. I afterwards heard that one of their men played a stellar (or cellar) rôle on the sidelines at the last C. U. game. A tall Iowan and "corn" go well, but not with President Lewis. I'm on the water wagon, otherwise I would have pledged.

Next I went up to the house mortgaged by the Kappa Sigma aggregation. They were putting on a dance that evening, apparently to give Jack Hayes and Daily an opportunity to go through a lot of silly gyrations. Dance! the crimes that are committed in thy name. Lester Johnson told me he was a member of the Interfraternity Council, and that he was well known on the campus. I later found out why. McCarthy and Higgins showed me a nice time upstairs. And there was Sweeney. All Joe College boys. The party went off well until the cops stopped it. However, all bottles were empty by this time. White asked if I wanted to pledge, but I had to turn it down. There's the mortgage coming due, and little me figured that expenses in this town would be sufficient without trying to keep the sheriff away. And besides, there are two or three fellows who will be active in the chapter for another year.

The Sigma Chi's were right on the ground when I got to the station, and they started well. Ludwig carried my grip and Beatie paid the car fare. We went right on up to the house, somewhere in the black belt on N Street. The house is built from the ground up, but it is that portion below the surface of the ground that interests most of the Sigma Chi boarders. I was immediately given the glad hand by those who were not down in the cellar, and the grand rush was on. A pint of corn and snappy slang expressions from Cherry and Pollock, such as "don't be

I journeyed up to the K. A. house the next day, or rather the house they were being put out of.

[282]

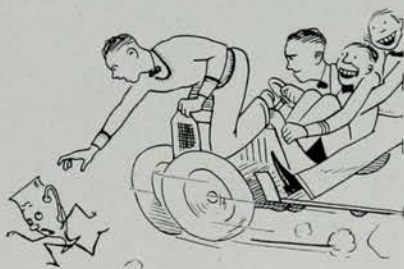

Curry was lamenting over the fact that all landlords are alike. Seaquist and Williams were trying to arrange for two or three rooms over a store, but it seems the owner wanted the rent in advance. They are a nice bunch, except for the actives and the pledges, and Dick McPherson. Espey explained that while K. A. was not known in the North and East and West, in the South it is regarded as a fraternity. Probably if I had been willing to become "a wanderer on the face of the earth," I would have pledged.

It was the next evening that I ran out to see the boys at the Theta Delta Chi tea house. They were entirely too nice for me, and besides, I wear long pants now. What a rude character I must have appeared when I told the joke about the flapper in the barber shop. Pledger related a harrowing experience he had had that afternoon on F Street. Two Y. W. C. A. girls had spoken to him without ever having previously been introduced. Chatelain felt some protection should be afforded young college men against the modern flirtatious girl. Miller and Egan told me their chapter had never entered into student activities for the reason that one is compelled to come in contact with so many unwholesome characters. I left early in order to smoke a cigarette. Dean Rose, these fellows do not need a chaperone. It has been too long since I was a Boy Scout, so I didn't pledge.

Over at the S. P. E. stockade I spent an exciting afternoon a day or so later. Babe Fly said he felt his boarding house club would be regarded as a fraternity if the student body would only take them seriously. Corbin showed me the cups the "boys" had won. As fraternity men they are good athletes. Snooks Leebie suggested a ride in the chapter Ford. I lost my hand hold and sustained several bruises when I landed against a curbing. However, I didn't mind this as much as I did having to listen to Pryor and Lew Wallis. And then there was Olsen and Ladd to add to my discomforture. I afterwards found I had been spared the agony of meeting Melville Walker. For this I was thankful. Mount and Kerlin tried to pledge me, but I told them I didn't have a sufficient sense of humor.

The Sigma Nu's had me over for dinner the following evening. After being formally introduced, the bridge players resumed their game, and Dave Laux continued to read "Dante." I met George Buckheister on his way to a supper club. His clothes fit him perfectly, all except the coat and trousers. Clyde Tolson assumed a Senatorial stance and made a few remarks concerning the vexing problems confronting the Law School Senate. Stanley Tracy and Bunn Tolson told how they came near qualifying in the last track meet, and Tubby Fletcher and Guy Hottel broke in to say that the coach had promised to let them scrimmage against the first team to-morrow. And there was Bob Wilson, the Arrow Collar Ad. Roger Staley and Bob Harper were trying to get change for a dime to call National Park. Wade Becker played a selection from Beethoven, and Torchy Birmingham sang. If I had had a high hat I would have pledged.

pledged on the left. The pledged on the right. They pledged them thin. They pledged them tall. In fact, they pledged any and all. Later I understood they began giving tea dances on Sunday as an added attraction to keep up the pledging.

The following evening I went around to the P. S. K. chateau. You can certainly find your type here. They have them long and short, fat and thin, foreign and domestic, dumb and dumber, stewed and studious. The fraternity must be international. From the name, I judged that Stewart was the American representative. Other countries represented were Diffenderfer, Billhimer, Klopsch, Weigandt, Sontag, Unger, and Von Dachenhausen. Berglund had just been pledged. America being entitled to only one representative, I had no chance, even if I could have overlooked Kenneth Miller and Harold Young.

It was like making a trip abroad without the seasickness. Diggins said he felt the fraternity was doing a great work in furthering the government's Americanization movement. I enjoyed the evening, however. Foreigners were always fascinating to me.

to eat. Everett is the kind of a lad poor working girls write Cynthia Gray for advice about. And Dart had that air of confidence that what he said was talked about on front porches, and that what he did was a matter of record in the best of memory books.

The next afternoon I was spirited up to the Delta Tau Delta meeting hall. I like tea, but I'm not Chinese. Probably I would have pledged here, but I couldn't bear the thought of standing in front of Nunnally's those long winter afternoons. Furthermore, I didn't have any bell bottom trousers. I was rather embarrassed during the meal. I got hit with a dish of spinach and a piece of elderberry pie. Evidently Dowd is the best basket-ball captain G. W. has had—this year. Nichols and Somerville treated me very cordially, and on the whole gave me a pretty good rushing—that is to say, to get anything

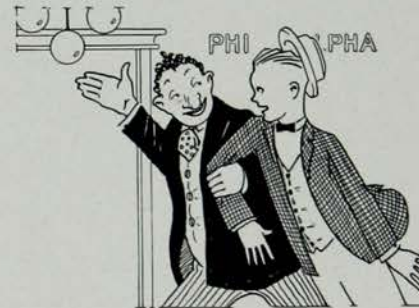

The next evening I had better luck. At least I got a meal. The Theta Upsilon Omega aggregation, representing the "back-to-the-farm" movement, had me up to their stable to give me the up and down, so to say. Unless they can get home soon, there is going to be another crying shortage in farm labor this summer. Youngman and McGrew talked rather knowingly about tractors, cultivators, hay binders, and such other implements as the boys are familiar with. Having been reared in an apartment house, you can imagine how out of place I felt. Nevertheless, I enjoyed the atmosphere of the wide open spaces. And the way these fellows are catching on to the city ways is surprising. Why, right now, Phol would be taken for a "jelly bean" even here in Washington. Three of the bunch, I understand, have purchased tuxedos. Probably had G. W. been an Agricultural college, I would have pledged.

It was the next afternoon that I sat on the porch with the Acacia boys. One would think this was the Home for Broken Down and Dilapidated Ford Coupes. Nixon asked me if I had read much of Voltaire of late. Petty was reading Well's "Outline." What a mistake I made when in an effort to cover up my ignorance, I asked Heller if he had read "If Winter Comes," by George Bernard Shaw. It was a relief when I got Loehler to talk about football. My embarrassment was consummated, however, when they began talking about pledging. I knew all the time a mistake had been made. "Hiram" had never challenged me, and consequently I wasn't eligible.

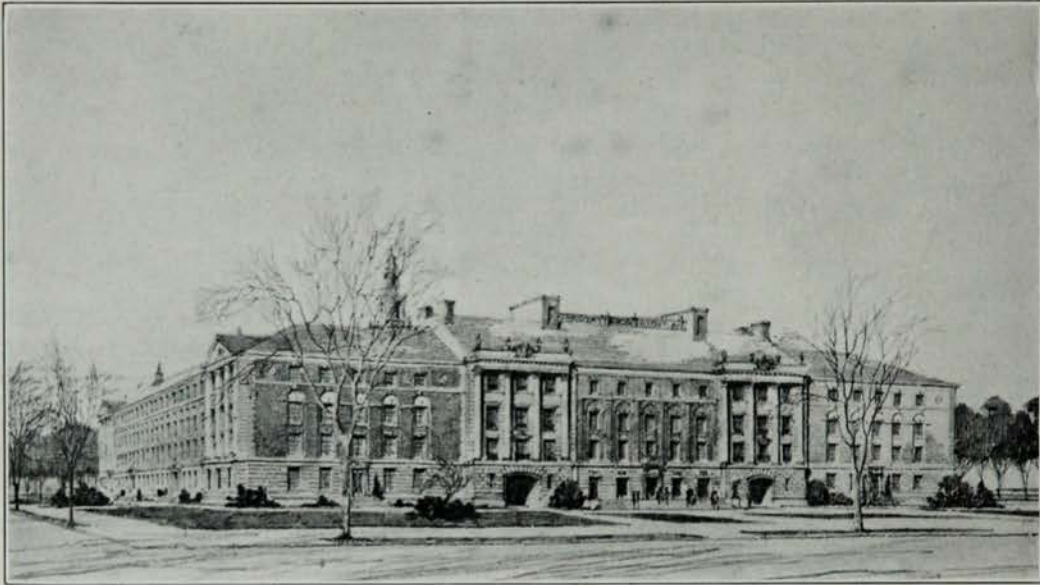

But it was a couple of days later that I made my biggest mistake, through an innocent misunderstanding. I was helping to hold up the fence down at Columbian College when a chap by the name of Balder started a conversation which ultimately led to the suggestion that I come up "and meet the fellows." (By this time this had come to mean a free meal.) Immediately upon my arrival I saw a mistake had been made. Again I wasn't eligible. My nose is not my nationality. Friedman and the rest of the order were very nice to me, and probably never knew that I didn't meet the qualifications. Oh, well, we all make mistakes, and the laugh was on both of us.

All in all it took two weeks. I met a lot of different kinds of college students, ate a lot of free meals, and had a good time. Finally I joined the Y. M. C. A.

A SAD STORY

I want to write a poem
'Bout a girl who can't be kissed:
A girl who will not yield an inch
When brute strength tries to force a clinch,
A girl who'll fight and never flinch,
A little petting to resist.

I want to write a poem
'Bout a girl who can't be kissed;
A girl who'll leave right at her door
Man after man, heartsick and sore.
But I must state, though I abhor,
That no such girl exists.

Vance Brand: "May I call upon you?"
 Mary McClintock: "Of course not."
 Vance: "Oh, I didn't mean to-night, I meant some cold, rainy night when I couldn't go anywhere else."

Were you ever out with a telephone operator
 And although your line was busy,
 She told you she had your number?
 If so,
 We'll bet
 You didn't get your party!
 Oh well, she didn't get a ring, either.

"Beat it," said the active as he handed the pledge the rug.

Bettelheim (talking to self in mirror):
 "Wel, Ed, it was a lucky day for G. W.
 when you came. You little 'versatile' rascal."

(Editor's Note.—Mr. Bettelheim wishes to announce that next year student activities will have to share his affection with Mrs.
 Bettelheim.)

THE DEMI-GOD

He whistled in with shrieking din,
 So it appeared to me.
 The love of all he seemed to win,
 They wouldn't let him be.

They grabbed his grip, without a tip,
 And lugged it here and there;
 They drove him on an auto trip—
 They took him everywhere.

They waltzed him out, and put to rout
 All men who sought his name;
 And those who knew him, raved about
 His glory and his fame.

He couldn't walk, he couldn't talk
 Without some word of cheer.
 And even when he tried to balk,
 Friend's wouldn't disappear.

Most popular of men was he;
 His every move caused joy.
 He filled those gathered 'round with glee;
 He surely was some boy.

But as a bubble fades away,
 So have his friends decreased.
 He roams around alone to-day;
 Attractions all are ceased.

No more his company is sought;
 No more between two grads he's wedged
 So great a change, one week has brought—
 The Freshman now is pledged.

Speaking of international relations, we have yet to hear of the co-ed who objects to mandates.

Drunk (on bridge): "Whas that down
 ther?"

Passerby: "Why, that's the reflection of the moon in the water."

Drunk: "We-l-l, if thas th' moon down

Although he spied, he never lied,
 He was a slick galoot.
 His father was a Rebel,
 Though he wore a union suit.

TO OUR LINE

The punter peels off a sixty-yard kick;
He's cheered to the echo—his punting is fine.
But who gave him the chance to turn out this trick?
....The strong, sturdy lads holding there on the line.

Backs reel down like thunder, line's trampled under,
But the fierce fighting forwards raise not a whine;
For they're there to be cuffed, and banged, and re-buffed,
These men of the game—the men of the line.

Our team nears the goal; line opens a hole;
Halfback shoots through with the game's only score.
Crowd gives him a cheer for the world to hear.
The line's overlooked by the throngs as they roar.
They stand there and fight, though their chance is but slight
To pull off a play that will get them a hand.
But without them, the ends, and big backfield men
Would be without cheers from the throng-studded stand.

And you'll read in the paper of each thrilling caper
Cut by the backs and ends as they shine.
But you seldom, if ever, hear of the clever
Work of the boys crouching there on the line.
We've all seen them play and we all have our say;
You have your favorites and, of course, I have mine.
But the writer, long dead, spoke the truth when he said:
"A team is as strong as its men on the line."

So we take this space here to ring out a cheer
For you gallant young warriors, whose play has been fine.
May this tender to you praise long overdue,
You great, though unhonored, lads of the line.

"I hear some of these profs are pretty fast."
"Well, I don't know. None of them passed me."

Ed: "Won't you join me at dinner?"
Co-ed: "Thanks, but I've been to the dentist."
Ed: "Not hungry?"
Co-ed: "No, his amalgam was very filling."

Privacy and Convenience

STUDENT fraternities, clubs and other organizations will appreciate the quiet privacy and convenient, central location of THE LEE HOUSE.

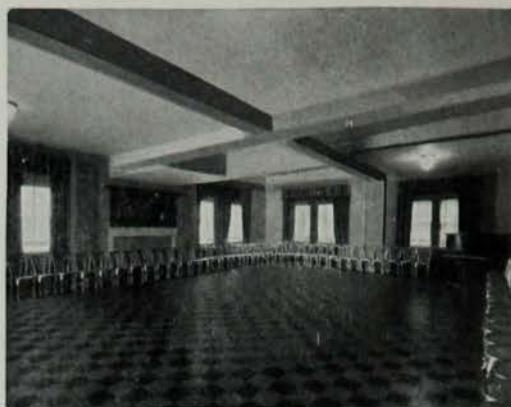

The new and beautifully decorated ballroom is in a separate wing of the building, away from the main lobby and street entrance but quickly reached by a private main floor corridor. It is also ideally adapted to small banquets or supper dances. The charges are quite moderate.

Special attention given to student organization dances and banquets.

THE EVOLUTION(?) OF THE CO-ED

Remember the co-ed of yesteryear,
Pretty and bashful and sweet,
With her hair pulled back from her cute little ear—
And her dresses way down to her feet?

She was a vision sweet to behold
With her ruffles and ribbons and lace.
And all that was seen in those days of old
Was her feet and her hands and her face.

But the co-ed of to-day is a different lass
With her paint and her powder and puff.
And those who would stick in her trail-blazing class
Must hasten to spread all their stuff.

She smokes and she dances the hours away—
Life to her is a game;
But when you look under the surface, why, say
Those two girls are one and the same.

GEORGE WASHINGTON HAS TAUGHT ME

That German police dogs wear no shoes;
That Sunday is a day of rest-itution;
That the shortage of bananas was a twit;
That many a home has been wrecked by an idle
roomer;
That galoshes are buttoned only when used for hat-
racks;
That co-education requires a male and female and
nature does the rest;
That nectar stories do not always involve heavenly liquid;
That a University needs a Dean of Men;
That ice cream advances in price with the advance of the thermometer. (See Quigley's new price list);
That Barnum was right.

Charley Ballard says the red rim around his eyes is the Scotch border.

Dick: Do you love me?
Grace: I'll say I do.
Dick: Well, I'll take it from your lips.

Jeanne: And after the dance he took me right straight home.

Katty: How vulgarly original.

Alpha: "I'm going to sue Dean Wilbur
for libel!"

Chi: "Why's that?"

Alpha: "Because he wrote on my last theme, 'You have bad relatives and antecedents.'"

Bob Sedan says, "She may be a farmer's daughter, but she sure knows her oats."

Doctor Griggs: Miss Shoemaker, what is a pistil?
Mary: Well, in Chicago, it's a gat; in New York,
it's hardware; out West, it's artillery; and in Washington, it's a gun; but in this class we're trying to put the darn thing in a flower pot.

OLD STUFF

She took out the bottle,
She shook her fair head,
"I do hate to open this thing," she said.
She looked at the label,
It read Paris, France—
That it was rare liquid
Could be told at a glance.
"Oh, I really can't do it,
It will vanish so soon."
So she put it away,
That rare old perfume.

An exclusive photograph by the Cherry Tree's staff photographer, showing Dean Van Vleck the only time he has been known to smile, taken at the time he increased the budget for football.

George Buckheister says, "The corn-fed co-ed of to-day is not fed on the same kind of corn as her sister of twenty years ago."

"How was the Barbers' Ball last night?"
"Well, I stayed until a fellow committed herpicide, and then I decided the party was getting too
dandruff."

Babe Fly has a good line, but some of the femmes say it's full of (k)nots.

HOW TO MAKE A FRATERNITY

(With apologies to no one under the sun.)

The first thing for a Freshman to do when he arrives on the campus is to high hat everybody, especially those who look as if they might be members of a fraternity. This immediately brands him as very exclusive and a highly desirable prospect. The next thing to do is to call around to all the houses on the campus, never, of course waiting for an invitation. The best time for calling is the dinner hour, which affords the members a chance to ask the Freshman to dinner. After completing the rounds the most desirable crowd should be picked out and the Freshman should approach them with the greeting, "Well, fellows, I've decided to join your frat. Give me the application blank and the pin." The use of the word "frat" is very wise as it immediately brands one as a person with a complete knowledge of the inner workings of fraternal organizations. The special type of pin desired should be noted on the application blank as many fraternities will try to palm off last year's stock on an unsuspecting person. For the benefit of Freshmen and all other varieties of nincompoops it should be noted that a fraternity is most emphatically not a den of iniquity whose secret motto is "Wine, Wimmen, and Song." It is strictly a stag affair, the female counterpart of which is the sorority. Over the entrance to all first-class fraternities is written, in ancient Greek, the words "Park Your Bims Outside." After joining do not confine your interests to your own fraternity and never attend a fraternity dance when you have a bid to a high school sorority party. If your fraternity and another are both running a man for the presidency of your class it is customary to vote for the representative of the other organization. After being pledged attend all the meetings of the fraternity incognito in order to learn your status with the "boys." Learn the size of the clothes worn by all your future brothers as this knowledge will be invaluable to you in a very short time. While you are a goat do not endeavor to become acquainted with any of the members, as they are all considered to be on trial with you until you allow them to initiate you. Do all these things and your path through college will be a bed of roses with the thorns removed.

FASHION HINTS

The only thing comparable with the disproportionate size of the college man's legs and his trousers is his capacity for liquor and what he thinks it is.

The new striped sox remind one that a zebra is first cousin to an ass.

The collich woman's hat and the collich man's flask have the same capacity this year.

A tingling sensation in the rear portion of the body will remind fraternity Freshmen that they have forgotten a certain adornment for the left lapel of the coat.

The popular type of belts may be used as a hammock in case of emergency.

A yellow slicker does not necessarily indicate that a man works on a fishing boat—he may be a pearl diver.—Siren.

Announcement:—Professor West will conduct a class in Insomnia 1 and 2 beginning in the fall of 1925.

None was quite sure that spring was here until Dean Rose blossomed forth minus the galoshes.

Dean Wilbur: "The poet's eye in a fine frenzy rolling doth—"

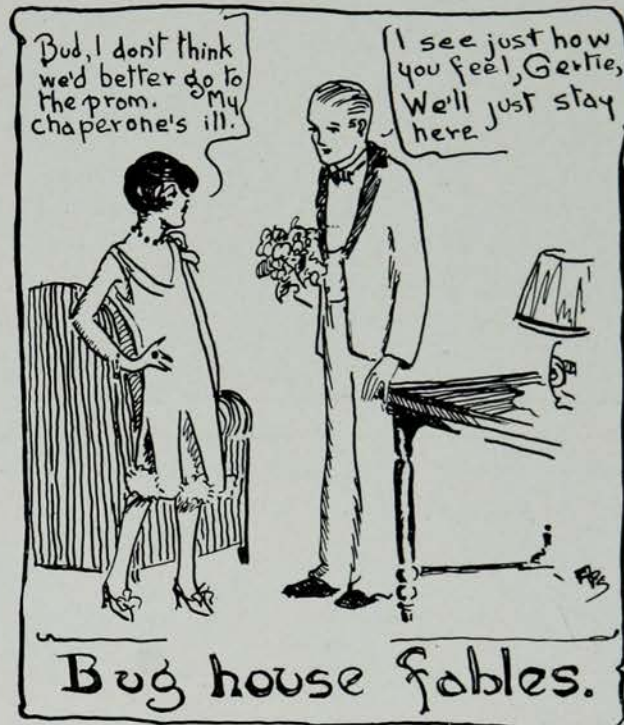

Voice from the rear: "Shoot a nickel."

Professor West (in "Political Parties"): "What are the politics of your family?"

Petrie: "Well, my father's Democrat; my mother's Republican; the baby's wet; and I'm dry."

Isn't it queer that Prof. Bolwell takes only the pretty girls up to the front row for talking in class!

Joan Collins was mistaken for one of Singer's Midgets not long ago.

TO THE LADIES—HOW TO ACT AT FRATERNITY DANCES

If he says he will call at ten always manage to be at least one hour late, or more, if possible. When you arrive at his car express surprise and disappointment that he has brought two of the brothers and their dates with him. Do not under any circumstances be civil to them, as this will make a great hit with your escort. Smile sweetly at the ladies in the tonneau and then confine your remarks on the way to the dance to a criticism, in sotto voce, of their gowns, their manners, their family, their personal attributes, and all other portions of their lives until you have completely dissected them. Upon arriving at the house go immediately to the ladies' room and remain there until everyone else has left, thus giving your escort an opportunity to look for the ten thousandth time at the pictures on the wall in the men's room. Upon coming out of the ladies' room remember to inform him in an icy tone that whoever cleaned up the room used by the girls did not do a very thorough job and that you soiled your brand new two-year-old dress on one of the chairs. If there are any members of other fraternities present at the party it is always wise to show a decided preference for them, especially if they are members of the rival organization. Always be sure to inquire the meaning of any and all symbols on shields, pins, or pictures as a fraternity man is always anxious to divulge the secrets of his organization to everyone. When the dance is over tell everyone how tired you are, hurry home, forget to tell him what a good time you had and slam the door in his face. You will no doubt be invited again. . . .

THE POOR SAP

Ten studes stood on the concrete campus and cried, "The poor sap!" at a simple-looking frosh who was on a bench studying Dean Wilbur's Rhetoric.

Of these ten studes—

One had the night before paid 8 bucks and 80 cents for two seats to take a Pi Phi to the Follies.

One had voted at the last Senate election under the impression that he was participating in a representative student government.

One wore a terrible looking derby because the clerk in the Young Men's Shop had told him they were being worn this year.

One believed that the Gym was built for athletics.

One had in his pocket a quart of "genuine pre-war stuff" at twelve a quart.

One was engaged to a co-ed, having heard that two can live as cheaply as one.

One formed his opinions from the editorials in The Hatchet.

One was still aglow with pride at having been told by a Chi Omega that he had lovely eyes.

One had recently bet that the Cherry Tree would be out on time.

And one actually believed that the Honor System was working at Columbian College.

And these ten studes stood on the concrete campus and cried, "The poor sap!" at a simple-looking frosh who was on a bench studying Dean Wilbur's Rhetoric.

It is reported that a Freshman was tortured to death in this University in the balmy month of May. He informed someone that Mr. Brown's class in Psysics was the softest snap on the curriculum.

Verdict: Justifiable homicide.

Wallace Anderson says if you want to stand in with the fair sex just start taking snapshots for the Cherry Tree.

Snooks Leebie calls his flivver Pyorrhea, because four out of every five have one.

"Pretty bad about the polecat, wasn't it?"
 "What's that? Hadn't heard about it."
 "His father disowned him. Cut him off without a scent."

AIN'T IT FUNNY

They're foolish and futile and vain,
 They give me a terrible pain.
 With their powder and puff
 I should have enough,
 But I like 'em.

When their chatter is becoming annoying,
 And the evening I'm far from enjoying—
 If I had any sense
 I'd take myself hence,
 But I like 'em.

When the hour of midnight is striking,
 And I think that for home I'll be hiking,
 Then they lift up those lips,
 From which sweet honey drips,
 Gosh! I like 'em.

First Co-ed: I'm crazy about Wordsworth.
 Second: I don't see why you are. You haven't a chance with him.

THE HEIGHT OF OPTIMISM

Our idea of the height of optimism is a ninety-year old gent buying a new suit with two pairs of pants.

Prof. Richardson really tries hard to get his subject over. And he succeeds. It goes over.

Dick McPherson says: "Judge a girl not by the way she takes a kiss, but by the way
she returns it."

H. "You say that you flunked in German?"
Why, I can't understand it."
M. "Same here. That's why I flunked."

Bob Pollock and Edwin S. Bettelheim, Jr., went out hunting and ran into a wildcat. They started running and saw a wild bull coming at them from the other direction. Bettelheim, who had the gun, stopped short. "Which one shall I shoot, Bob?" "For God's sake shoot the wildcat," said Bob, "You can shoot the bull anytime."

MISS FORTUNE

I met the sweetest girl of all
At a formal dance in Corcoran Hall.
She radiated youth and fire,
She filled me with a mad desire
To flee with her to lands unknown
Where we could live and love alone.
But Lady Luck I've never met,
For if I had I'll make a bet
I'd not now be in this mess,
For I have lost that dame's address.

Guy Hottel says it's hell to be popular with the fair sex when you are in charge of a soda fountain.

What's so rare as a day in June? Answer: A Rabbit Hole steak.

Jack Hayes: "I can spot a Brooks tie every time."

Perry Gard: "Why don't you use a napkin once in a while?"

THE DANGEROUS SIGMA NU

By JOHN CAHLAN

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up at the Pi Phi afternoon tea,
And the kid that cranked the music-box wore the pin of an S. A. E.
And back in the den on a davenport sat the Dangerous Sigma Nu,
And luring him on with her rust-red hair, the Pi Phi that's known as Lou.

When out of the night that was hotter than hell and into the frigid air Stumbled a Frosh from the Phi Sig House, with Nujol on his hair.
He looked like a man who had danced his last dance, and scarcely the strength of a flea,
But he staggered across the polished floor and ordered a cup of tea.
There was none who could place the Frosh's face, though we searched ourselves for a clue;
And the last to look at the stranger's clothes was the Dangerous Sigma Nu.

His eyes went rubbering 'round the room, and he seemed in a drunken daze,
'Till at last the Dangerous Sigma Nu came into his wandering gaze.
The S. A. E. was having a smoke; and the crowd was drinking some tea,
When the Phi Sig stumbled across the floor with his eyes glued onto me.
In a striped silk shirt that was covered with dirt, he looked, and I heard him say,
"That Sigma Nu, he stole my girl; by God, I'll make him pay"!

Were you ever out on the tree-lined quad, when the moon was awful clear,
And a pair of arms that hemmed you in; and a silence you most could hear;
With only the thump of a loving heart, and your sweetie's lips above,
A half-crazed man in a woman's arms, clean mad for that thing called love;
While high overhead, green, yellow and red, the street lights swept in bars?
Then you've a hunch what that Phi Sig meant—hunger and night and the stars.

The Phi Sig turned, and his eyes they burned in a most peculiar way;
In a striped silk shirt that was covered with dirt, he looked, and I heard him say,
"Boys," says he, "you don't know me, and none of you give a damn;
But I want to say he'll pay some day, and I'll bet my shirt it's true,
One of you guys stole my girl . . . and that guy's the Sigma Nu."

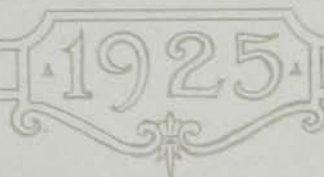

The lights went out, and I ducked my head; two frat pins flashed in the dark—
And a woman screamed, and the light of a match revealed a terrible sight.
Amid the din with a Phi Sig pin, sat the lady known as Lou.
While the Pi Phi Cook, with an innocent look, had the pin of the Sigma Nu.

Elsie Talbert had the following conversation with Professor Doyle:
Elsie: Won't you come over to the Chi O rooms for luncheon?
Prof. Doyle: I would be pleased to.
Elsie: That's fine. Don't forget to bring the little Doylies with you.

If you give your girl too much rope she may decide to skip.

TO show a proper reverence for the glorious tradition of George Washington University and at the same time keep abreast of the new spirit which promises to carry it into still wider fields of usefulness, has been the purpose of the editor of the 1925 CHERRY TREE. If in the years to come you may be able to look back through these pages and find preserved memories of happy and profitable days, then his effort has been worthwhile.

To the members of his staff and those who by contribution or kindly suggestion have made possible any success this edition may have achieved, the editor is deeply grateful.

IN setting the type, printing, and binding this book, our object was not to see how quickly and cheaply we could produce the publication, but how well it could be done.

Our whole aim in this, as in all our work, is to give the greatest attention to all the details, and produce printing that will be a credit to the institutions from which the publications are issued. Our books will be just as good in the many years to come, when an annual is of greatest value, as they are to-day.
